Warsaw Message Says Soviet's Armistice Plan Ignored

DEFENSES PERILED

Reds May Force Enemy To Evacuate Positions In Pinsk Marshes

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, July 31.—A telegram from Marienburg states:

"Two thousand Polish troops, which had been cut off have crossed the German frontier near Prostken. They will be disarmed and interned."

"The Russian advance guards are operating along the German frontier but are not crossing it."

Copenhagen, July 31.—Polish telegrams from Warsaw admit that a most intense Bolshevik offensive has been re-started, after the Soviet's acceptance of the proposal for an armistice. The Red's immediate objective is apparently a point between Brest-Litovsk and Olovico. If this objective is gained, the Poles will be forced to evacuate their principal defenses, namely the Pinsk marshes.

The Bolshevik's have launched a simultaneous attack in the Podolian sector, but the main issue of the situation depends on the impending battle southwest of Grodno, where the Bolsheviki have already penetrated the ancient territory of Congress Poland.

The Bolshevik wireless quotes a manifesto to the Red armies saying:

"Our delegation headed by comrade Kameneff has gone to London. Comrades, on your success at the front depends the success of the delegation."

Indian Auxiliary To Be Placed On Volunteer Basis

(Reuter's Service)

Simla, July 30.—The text of the Indian Auxiliary Force Bill has just been published. The Bill substitutes voluntary enrolment for obligatory registration but a reversion to the old scheme will be contemplated, if the change results in an important difference in numbers.

An auxiliary officers corps is also proposed.

The Indian Government are further considering a bill constituting an Indian territorial force to form a second line to the Indian army. The scheme will at first be experimental.

General Villa, Pardoned, Lays Down His Arms

GENERAL PANCHO VILLA
(Reuter's Service)

Eagle Pass, Texas, July 29.—It is officially reported that General Villa has surrendered unconditionally, following an all-night conference with General Martinez, the representative of the new Mexican Government. The announcement of the surrender was received with rejoicing throughout Mexico.

NEW REVOLT STARTED

General Villa is expected in Mexico City shortly to place himself at the disposal of the President, after which he will retire into private life.

General Villa and his followers have been restored to full Mexican citizenship and it is reported that General Villa has been given a yearly allowance and that his followers will receive farming lands and a year's army pay. The men will be disbanded at Torreon whither they are now proceeding.

Washington, July 29.—It is generally accepted that General Villa's surrender does not bring American recognition of the Mexican Government measurably nearer.

STATUS UNCHANGED

General Villa's status has not greatly changed. He is under an indictment for killing soldiers and civilians at Columbus, N. M., in 1916 and the fact that he was placed himself under the laws of his own country may mean that his extradition may be sought and thus the Mexican Government will again be placed in an embarassing position.

Mexico City, July 29.—Colonel Canta, Governor of Lower California, is in open revolt against the Government and 3,000 Federal troops have been sent to Lower California.

BLOCKADE WILL ENFORCE RULES MADE BY LEAGUE

Balfour Declares Neutrals And Ex-Enemies Should Become Members

(Reuter's Service)

San Sebastian, July 30.—The Council of the League of Nations opened in full conference today.

In the course of a statement delivered prior to the opening, Mr. Balfour emphasised the universal character of the League, declaring that not only neutrals but ex-enemies should belong to the League in order to obtain the co-operation of the whole world.

Mr. Balfour foreshadowed the application by the League of an economic blockade to nations which defied the League's decisions.

War Time Rationing Is No Longer Necessary, Opinion Of Government

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, July 29.—The State Department has made representations to Great Britain with a view to securing equal opportunities for American citizens in the development of oil fields in mandated countries, including Mesopotamia.

The United States government is seeking information regarding the Anglo-French oil agreements, especially the pre-war agreement, and the extent of Governmental control of oil fields.

It is understood that the United States government holds that the war-time inter-Allied system of rationing raw materials is no longer necessary and that ordinary business rules should prevail.

PRINTER PREDICTS LABOR WILL RULE ENGLISH POLITICS

Delegates On Way To Ottawa For Sessions Of Imperial Press Conference

(Reuter's Service)

St. John, N.B., July 31.—The British delegates to the Imperial Press Conference which is about to open at Ottawa were welcomed at an official luncheon here today.

Sir Robert Bruce, editor of the Glasgow Herald, in the course of a speech emphasised the importance of the conference, which will discuss, inter alia, better and cheaper cable facilities for the press and also the question of circulating news all over the British Empire.

Mr. Naylor, President of the Printing Trades Federation, said that the time was approaching when labor would govern England. This would not make any difference in the attitude of the Motherland to the Dominions. He hoped that the conference would result in promoting the best feelings between the industrial elements and the newspaper profession throughout the Empire.

New York, July 30.—The shareholders of the International Harvester Company have voted an increase in preferred stock of $40,000,000 and in common stock of $50,000,000. It is proposed out of the new shares to set aside $20,000,000 common stock and $40,000,000 preferred stock for a share of ownership plan, which will be open to 40,000 employes of the Company in the United States and Canada.

Australian Seamen Oppose Jap Invasion

(Reuter's Service)

Sydney, July 31.—Three Japanese steamers are expected here shortly to trade on the Australian coast. The Seamen's Union is however strenuously objecting to "the intrusion of Eastern crews in the Australian coastal service" on the ground that many Australian seamen are unemployed and it is against the interestes of the Commonwealth to keep Japanese on the coast.

Turks May Disband Army; U.S. Ships Are Sent To Scene

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, July 30.—The American cruiser St. Louis and six destroyers are going to Turkey as reinforcements, and also as a precautionary measure, to protect American lives and property in case of need.

Japan Is Ready To Reply To U.S. Protest Against Occupation Of Saghalien

China Denies Refusal To Adopt Tokio's Plan For Joint Investigating Body On Charges Connected With Nikolaievsk Massacre

(Reuter's Parisc Service)

Tokio, July 31.—Japan's reply to the American communication, stating that America cannot recognise the Japanese occupation of the northern section of Saghalien, is believed to be ready but, prior to forwarding, it will be submitted to the consideration of the Foreign Affairs Advisory Commission.

It is authoritatively stated that the reply reiterated and emphasises the absence of territorial ambition.

A note identique will be sent to the other powers.

RUMOR OF REJECTION

Peking, August 2.—Reuter learns that, though the Chinese Government has not yet furnished a written reply to the Japanese request to participate in the investigation of the charges of Chinese complicity in the Nikolaievsk outrages, the Chinese Government has verbally expressed its readiness to do so. China, it is stated, never objected, though certain dimculties were originally discussed.

Tokio, July 31.—It is semi-officially stated that China has refused to agree to the Japanese proposal for a joint committee to investigate the charges of Chinese participation in the Nikolaievsk massacre because China has already sent a Committee to Nikolaievsk.

Japan will, therefore, protest on the basis of the evidence, collected by the Japanese Committee.

It is alleged that the Chinese Committee has attempted to cover up the traces of Chinese participation on the scene of the outrage.

Peking, August 1.—Reuter is semi-officially informed that Mr. Obata, the Japanese Minister recently protested to the Waichiaopu, alleging that a Chinese gunboat assisted the Russians at Nikolaievsk. Chinese reports however entirely contradict the charge.

MUST PROTECT FOREIGNERS

Vladivostok, August 1.—The Japanese Consul, on behalf of the Consular Corps, has notified the Provisional Government that unless the Government takes adequate steps within three days to guarantee the protection of foreigners, the Consular Corps itself will adopt the necessary measures.

The Cossack gathering at Grodekovo in February last condemned Ataman Kalmikoff to be handed over to a courtmartial for despoiling the country and killing innocent people.

At the gathering which has just concluded and which was also attended by Semenoff's Cossacks it was decided to reinstate Kalmikoff as Ataman of the Usuri Cossacks and to send delegates to China to negotiate for his release from internment. The Russian militiamen were advised to leave Grodekovo.

ANGLO-JAP PACT

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 29.—In the House of Commons today, replying to Mr. Gershom Stewart, Mr. Cecil Harmsworth, the Under-Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, stated that Japan had expressed her willingness to return Shantung to China with certain limited restrictions. The Government had no information that China had signified her willingness to accept Shantung from the League of Nations and the Government could not accept the suggestion that they should influence Japan to annul all leases and concessions from China in Manchuria since July, 1911.

Replying to another question by Mr. Stewart, Mr. Harmsworth stated that, if and when negotiations were started with regard to the renewal of the Anglo-Japan-

Many Affairs Planned For Legislators Due Thursday

Time Of Arrival Of Congressmen Again Changed —Community Dinner To Be Feature

News was received here yesterday by cable to the American Consulate that the United States Congressional party is due at Woosung on Thursday morning and not on next Monday, as its secretary announced sometime ago.

The change of the date of the arrival of the party will necessarily cause some inconvenience, but the committee in charge hopes to adjust matters today.

COMMUNITY DINNER

The American community dinner will be hold on Friday evening, at the Carlton and a part of the day Friday will be devoted to a program of entertainments by Chinese officials and organisation, including two receptions and one tiffin.

The Pan-Pacific Union under whose auspices the party is travelling, will hold its dinner on Thursday and on Friday a tiffin will be given for the ladies of the Congressional party by the American Woman's Club. This will take place at the Astor House and notifications have been issued to members desiring to attend to call Mrs. R. I. Clapp by Thursday noon.

OFFICIAL ARRIVES

Mr. Wang Ling-kuo, Counsellor of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, arrived in Shanghai yesterday. He will represent the Government in welcoming the Congressional party.

A tea party will be given by the Special Commissioner of Foreign Affairs, the Defense Commissioner, the Taoyin, the City Magistrate, the Customs Superintendant and the Chief of the Nantao Police at the Bureau of Foreign Affairs on Thursday afternoon at 6 o'clock.

Most of the members of the Congressional party are to leave Shanghai on vessels leaving Saturday and Sunday, but it is expected that a number will remain for an indefinite time and visit Peking and other centers as originally planned. Those who go at the end of the week will sail directly for San Francisco.

PAN-PACIFIC MEETING

The first general meeting of the Pan-Pacific Association will be held in the Astor House Hotel on the evening of Thursday, August 5, 1920, at 8 o'clock, and will be in the form of a dinner and reception to welcome the coming American Congressional party. As this party was promoted and organised by Mr. Alexander Hume Ford, Secretary of the Pan-Pacific Union, it is fitting that the first public reception should be given by the local branch.

Speeches will be given by the following: The representative of the Congressional Party, Dr. Sun Yat-sen, Dr. Wu Ting-fang, Dr. Paul S. Reinsch, and Mr. A. H. Ford, Mr. Tong Shao-yi, President, will preside. There will be special Chinese and foreign music and juggling. Tickets are four dollars ($4.00) each and must be secured in advance. Friends, including ladies, will be welcome. Applications for tickets should be made at as early a date as possible.

NEW ZEALAND TO CONTINUE CHINESE LABOR IN SAMOA

(Reuter's Service)

Wellington, N.Z., July 31.—In the course of a debate on Samoa in the House of Representatives today the Government announced that it had definitely decided to continue to import properly controlled Chinese indentured labor into Samoa, which was considered necessary in order to prevent destruction of planations.

The House by 33 votes to 11 endorsed the Government's policy, after the Prime Minister Mr. W. F. Massey, had undertaken to substitute "free labor" when possible.

The minority was chiefly composed of Labor members.

NAVY Y.M.C.A. WILL BUILD NEW SHANGHAI HOME

Permanent Headquarters Will Be Erected At Szechuen And Hongkong Roads

APPROPRIATION IS MADE

International Committee Provides Funds To Carry Out Long Standing Project

The Navy Y.M.C.A. of Shanghai is to have a permanent home a building specially built for the purpose of providing for the needs of navy men who visit this port. The site chosen is the corner of Szechuen and Hongkong Roads.

The International Committee of New York acting for the War Work Council has authorised the purchase of a suitable piece of ground conveniently located for the purpose and has made an appropriation of funds to cover the expense. The purchase will be made at once and building plans prepared so that the structure may be hastened to completion as the quarters now occupied will be required by the owners within a short period of time.

MANY HOMES

The announcement of the gift of the International Committee was made at a meeting of the Committee of Management of the Navy "Y" last evening. It was the cause for considerable congratulation as it is the consummation of efforts begun as long as ten years ago when the Y.M.C.A. was asked to undertake the organisation of work for the navy boys.

Since the time of the first organisation the local committee and secretaries have worked hard to secure a permanent headquarters. Within the ten years the work has been carried on in five different locations none of which have been entirely suited to the purpose. The work was begun ten years ago in small [illegible] Broadway, afterwards moved to the Shaftsbury House on Seward Road. During the war through the courtesy of the Navy League the Hanbury House was used until it was required by the work for the British navy, then for a time the work was in Nanking Road and now in temporary buildings loaned by the Standard Oil on Avenue Edward VII.

INITIATED BY WOMEN

The work was undertaken through the initiative of the American Association and the American Women's Club, and the active co-operation of Dr. A. P. Wildor, the American Consul-General. A work for American

Mr. F. G. Kellaway, Parliamentary Secretary for Overseas Trade, said that as soon as the trade negotiations with Russia were concluded, as he believed they would be, Russia would be included in the scope of the bill, because undoubtedly Russia was one of the most hopeful markets for British trade.

Popular Local Naval Officer Gets New Job

CAPTAIN S. T. WANG, C. N.

Captain S. T. Wang, popular staff officer of the local Admiralty, was on Sunday appointed commander of the Yungchien gunboat now stationed at Taku, to succeed Captain Tseng Yi-ting, brother of the Anfu Minister of Communications, Tseng Yu-hsing. Captain Wang will assume his new duties in ten days, he announced yesterday. He leaves for Nanking today and returns tomorrow.

Captain Wang was educated at the Nanyang Naval College. After graduating with the highest honors, he saw service as a second and a first lieutenant on different training ships and gunboats and has been promoted to commander and appointed staff officer to Admiral K. K. Lang, commander-in-chief of the Chinese Navy since March, 1918.

For his distinguished services, he has been awarded the third class Striped Tiger and fourth class Chiaho. He is only 32 years old and comes from Chinkiang.

CANADA MAILS TO FAR EAST GO ON JAP VESSELS

Dominion Postal Authorities Fail To Reach Agreement With C.P.R.

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 31.—The Times Vancouver correspondent telegraphs: "The disagreement between the Dominion postal authorities and the Canadian Pacific Railway Company with regard to the trans-Pacific mail contract is becoming serious.

"As a result of the dispute, all British and Canadian mails are now sent to the Far East by Japanese ships, which are much slower than the Canadian vessels.

"Hitherto the C.P.R. mail subsidy has been $320,000, but this year $450,000 was asked; the government refused and offered alternatives which the company rejected. The culmination was reached when 6,000 mail bags mostly from Great Britain were removed from the Empress of Asia before she sailed.

"Mail is now subject to a delay of from five to ten days across the Pacific.

"Meanwhile the C.P.R. has contracted to carry American mail via Vancouver at the rates asked."

It is believed that mail consignments received yesterday from Seattle, Washington, on the steamer Kashimi Maru formed part of the mail matter taken ashore from the Empress of Asia in Vancouver when that vessel was about to sail.

A number of sacks of letter mail from the Kashimi Maru were not received at the American Post Office until in the evening and this will be distributed and placed in the boxes by 10 o'clock in the morning.

PEKING ARCH GOING UP FOR CONQUERORS OF ANFUITES

First Through Passengers From Capital Reach Here Yesterday

VICTORS ARRIVING

RIFLES ON MOVE

Foreign Soldiers Leave Peking For Tientsin Or Shanghaikwan

A triumphal arch to record the victory of the anti-Anfu militarists is being erected in Peking, according to Mr. H. K. Kwong, English secretary of the Kiangnan Dock and Engineering Works, who was one of the 20 first through passengers who arrived here from Peking yesterday morning.

The party after separately succeeding in passing through one of the 13 gates of Peking, boarded the first ordinary express train between Tientsin and Pukow on Saturday morning, made all the connections without delay and arrived at the Shanghai North station yesterday morning at 7 o'clock.

TROOPS LINE ROADS

All along the railroads, troops performed the patrol duty, according to Mr. Kwong, and large numbers of them were seen erecting their tents in the fields. He said that Peking is suffering the greatest heat yet experienced in years and the closing up of the gates is causing a great deal of hardship.

The arch to commemorate the entrance of the victors, led by Generals Tsao Kun, Chang Tso-lin and Chin Yun-peng, is made of wood and will be profusely decorated and befianged when the official triumphant march takes place.

Mr. Kwong was recently married in Peking and expressed great relief in being able to take the first train out of the Northern capital. He and his bride will make their home in Shanghai.

AFTER ANFU SCALPS

The closing of the gates in Peking, though essentially to prevent any possible looting by the disarmed Anfu forces, is also being carried out for the purpose of arresting the ten outlawed Anfuite leaders for whose heads large sums of money have been offered as rewards. Altogether $187,000 has been offered for the ten criminals. It is understood that all of the outlaws had each insured their lives for $200,000 with Japanese concerns.

A Presidential mandate has been issued, extending clemency to all the minor Anfuites who were forced to join the ranks of their leaders, thus limiting the black list to ten as already promulgated.

General Wu Ping-hsiang, the Superintendant of the Peking Police who was arrested as a minor Anfuite, has been released by a special order from the Presidential Palace.

The old Chiaotung clique, however, is urging Generals Tsao Kun and Chang Tso-lin to file with Peking an additional black list.

MINISTRIES LIQUIDATED

President Hsu has ordered Mr. Chiang Yung-kwan, chief of the Bureau of Audits, to examine into the accounts of the Ministry of Finance and of Communications. Six accountants are now engaged in the work.

A court martial has been established in Paotingfu for the trial of the prisoners of war. General Chu Tung-teng heads the list of prisoners to be tried.

The Fengtien clique still favors the appointment of General Wang Shih-chen as Premier. The Chihli faction wants General Li Shun. But neither of them will appear on the political stage until the situation is better settled. General Chin Yun-peng is likely to organise a Cabinet for a certain length of time. The President, following the refusal of Chou Shu-mou to accept the nomination, proposes Chien Nung-hsun, the former Premier, for the Premiership.

COKE'S RIFLES MOVE

Peking, August 2.—Coke's Rifles left Peking this afternoon. They were seen off by detachments of the Wiltshires, American marines and the Dutch, French, Italian and Japanese guards. Their destination is not yet known but it is either Tientsin or Shanhaikwan.

Amid the number of nominations and suggestions for the formation of the new Government, it is officially believed that the following appointments are most likely: Chin Yung-peng, Premier, Hu Wei-teh, Foreign Minister and Pan Fu, Finance Minister.

Jao Meng-jen, the Chinese delegate to the International Financial Conference in Belgium, will be recalled owing to his Anfuite connections. The Minister to Belgium will replace him at the Conference.

FIGHTING CHOLERA

The Diplomatic Corps' Medical Officers and the Chinese authorities have agreed separately to take active steps to remove the cholera menace. Though diplomatic machinery is slow in starting, there appears to be every probability that the matter will shortly be vigorously and unanimously taken up. It is suggested that the Foreign Legation Guards should lend experienced non-commissioned officers for a few days to instruct the Chinese soldiery in the best methods of constructing latrines and incinerators, marking foul ground, etc.

Yu Jen-feng has been appointed Director of the Peking-Hankow Railway and Hsiao Chen-shen director of the Suiyuan Railway.

Fan Chi-kuang's resignation as Consul-General at Omsk has been accepted.

Georgia has requested permission to establish a Consulate at Harbin.

ANTI-ANFU MANDATE

Peking, August 1.—A mandate is expected to be issued this afternoon dissolving the Anfu Club and cancelling its registration as a political body.

Two companies of guards, commanded by General Lo Kai-peng, Vice-Minister of War, have been disarmed by Fengtien troops. The men received $20 gratuity each.

Generals Chang Tso-lin and Tsao Kun are expected to arrive in Peking tomorrow.

STATUS OF MA LIANG

(China Press Correspondence)

Peitaiho, July 27, 1920.—It may be remembered that last year Ma Liang, military Commissioner of Tsinanfu, gained an unsavory record in his attitude toward the student activities. Ma Liang is not the tuchun of Shantung, but a secondary officer. However, he seems to have ambitions and has been allowed such freedom of action by a more or less indolent tuchun until he trained his 10,000 troops into being the only real soldiers they had there. Then when the students began to make trouble he stepped to the front, much as Chang Hsun did at Nanking in the Revolution, and put his superior officers in the background.

Ma Liang has been a supporter of the Anfu Club at Peking; hence when the troubles broke out between the conflicting parties about Peking he readily responded to Tuan Chi-jui's orders to move onto Tehchow and threaten Chang Tso-lin's forces which were massing in the region of Tientsin.

The Tehchow arsenal was built soon after the Boxer year and was placed at Tehchow to get it farther away from foreigners who had made Tientsin something of a stronghold. For years this arsenal has been guarded by a cordon of soldiers and no one, without pass, was allowed in the vicinity. At the time of the outbreak this summer the arsenal and the railroad toward Tientsin was controled by anti-Anfuite forces. It was supposed, therefore, that General Ma's advance on Tehchow was to get control of the war material stored there.

WEAK RESISTANCE

General Shang Teh-chien the officer in charge, put up a very weak resistance against Ma's forces. Without practically any resistance at all to the Tsinan forces, Shang gathered all the cars he could and started for Tientsin. There were some first class coaches in his hands but he preferred taking a common freight car for himself lest an attack should be made upon his trains and the better class cars selected for special attack.

General Ma came marching in, riding at the head of his troops. They showed the discipline of seasoned soldiers. They marched through the city with the "goose step," bugles blowing, flags flying and the General leading them. The contrast between the commanders of the rival forces was so marked that the people found no difficulty in giving their allegiance and admiration to General Ma. He quieted their fears, approved of the steps which had been taken to maintain order in the city, and ordered shot a couple of rowdies and two of his own men who had been caught looting.

ELDERS MEET GENERAL

The elders of the city came to meet the general and tendered to him the keys of the arsenal. Much was their surprise when General Ma refused to have anything to do with the arsenal, not even sending anyone to examine the place. He already knew that it was empty, had been for some time. It was but one form of bluff which the other side had carried out to fool their opponents. He had not come to seize an empty arsenal but to threaten Tientsin and he began quickly moving toward that place 150 miles farther north.

"What shall we do with the arsenal?" asked the city elders.

"Sell it and pay your debts," was Ma's response.

Evidently the anti-Anfuite forces have been keeping Ma Liang in mind. Some said that if he left Tsinanfu where he is so hated that he would never get back. His opponents undoubtedly had hoped that Ma would not be content to remain on Shantung ground. The Chinese civilian believes that Ma's opponents are laying a trap and he will have to go the way of the rest of the Anfu party. The news of the last few days indicates that they are moving toward him and he is retreating toward Tehchow and Tsinanfu.

FAMINE IN SHANTUNG

Meanwhile northern Shantung is rapidly drifting toward the worst famine they have had since the Boxer Rebellion. When we came through the region the end of June we were told they had had practically no rain since winter. The wheat crop was an absolute failure They had in places planted the summer crops but the grain had not even sprouted from the ground.

Delegates from the south coming through in April to the Tientsin Y. M. C. A. convention queried whether any one could live in such a desert country, evidently not knowing that Shantung is one of the most densely populated provinces in China. It was still desert in June. Dust rose in clouds about the lonely carts which were wending their way over the roads. Women and children were in the low swales on either side of the railroad digging up the scattered sprigs of wild grass that they might have something with which to feed their animals. Now their horses and mules are being offered for five or ten dollars apiece. There is no food in sight for man or beast. All the way north from Tsinanfu for nearly a hundred miles along both sides of the railroad the country looked like a desert. During July a few very light showers have fallen and a little green has appeared; but still this part of Shantung is threatened with the worst famine it has had for two decades.

Mr. C. C. dos Remedios, former president of the Club Uniao (Portuguese Club) and one of the prominent old-time dwellers of that nationality in Shanghai, died at his home, No. 41 Boone Road, on Sunday, and was buried with impressive ceremonies at Pahsienjao Cemetery yesterday evening.

Of the three grown children two are boys—Guestavo and William—and one, a daughter, is married and living in Japan. The deceased had been ill at St. Mary's Hospital for some time. Bright's disease being the cause of his demise.

Vatican Censures Mannix For Intemperate Politics

General Lucas Escapes From Sinn Fein Captors; Another Official Murdered

(Reuter's Service)

Rome, July 29.—The Vatican is surprised at the utterances of Archbishop Mannix. It is pointed out that a bishop, "should abstain from intemperate political manifestations." The Vatican disclaims responsibility for Archbishop Mannix' utterances which are stigmatised as blameworthy.

London, July 30.—Brigadier General C. H. T. Lucas, who was kidnapped by Sinn Feiners near Fermoy, County Cork, on June 27, has escaped from his captors.

He was picked up by a military lorry near Oola, between Limerick and Tipperary. The lorry was ambushed and two soldiers in it were killed after a desperate fight, but the Sinn Feiners retreated on the appearance of a second lorry which brought General Lucas to Tipperary barracks.

OFFICIAL MURDERED

London, July 30.—Mr. Brooke, Deputy-Lieutenant of County Wicklow, was shot dead at a Dublin station today immediately after alighting from a train. His assailants escaped.

London, July 30.—The official report of the proceedings of the interview which an important deputation of members of both Houses of Parliament had with the Prime Minister yesterday on the subject of Ireland, shows that the principal spokesman of the deputation, the Duke of Northumberland, quoted evidence in support of the contention that Sinn Fein is closely allied with Bolshevistic activities, which aim at the destruction of the British Empire as an essential step towards bringing about a dictatorship of the proletariat. The Duke of Northumberland urged the Government not to pursue a policy of drift.

WORLD WIDE PLOT

Sir Edward Carson laid stress on the existence of a world-wide conspiracy which only indirectly concerned itself with Home Rule for Ireland. No difference was drawn, he said, in the conspirators' propaganda between the questions of Ireland, Egypt, and India to which they were applying their attention, because all were regarded as keys of the Empire.

Sir Edward Carson requested the Government to unmask the disguised objects of Sinn Feinism for the sake of the country and the Empire.

The Prime Minister, replying, said that the Government did not need convincing regarding the impossibility of granting an independent Irish republic. He pointed out that although there undoubtedly was Bolshevik support behind Sinn-Feinism, it would be a mistake to conclude that it was a purely Bolshevik conspiracy.

PERIODICAL OUTBREAK

The Irish feud, pursued Mr. Lloyd George, was periodical, but the present outbreak was the worst he remembered. It was necessary to strengthen the forces in Ireland. Thousands of officers and men were required to put down lawlessness. The Prime Minister said that he would like to see the same assistance by way of recruitment for that purpose as was given during the war.

Mr. Lloyd George mentioned that a very gallant officer, who was one of the ablest British generals and was largely responsible for Ludendorff's failure to break the British lines in the last great German offensive, considered that service in Ireland was a much greater trial to a soldier's nerves than on the Western front, because he had constantly to be on the alert with revolver ready to hand.

If the British Empire surrendered control over Ireland, added the Prime Minister in conclusion, it would be equivalent to committing suicide.

GERMAN DRIVE MADE EASIER AT MAUBEUGE

Had Fortress Held Out Day Longer War Would Have Been Shorter

NEITHER SIDE KNEW IT

Gen. von Zwehl Commends Acquittal Of Gen. Fournier As Just

BY RAYMOND SWING

Berlin, June 30.—Had Maubeuge (in 1914) held out one day longer, Germany might later have found herself unable to hold out for four years of war, declared Gen. von Zwehl, who captured the French fortress.

The German General makes this as a subsequent observation and admits that neither he nor Gen. Fournier, recently acquitted in Paris of dereliction of duty in surrendering the fortress, nor even Marshal Joffre, could at the time have recognised the vital significance of the swift capitulation, and he commends the acquittal of Gen. Fournier by the French court-martial investigating the surrender.

"Had Maubeuge held out one day longer," he writes in the Kremnin Kreuzzeitung, "the separation of our First and Second Armies could not have been prevented, and thereby the First Army would have been pushed back to the sea, a possibility which caused grave concern in the headquarters of the Second Army.

"Although I do not believe it would have been so serious, it is still probable that we would have been unable to establish our lines on the Chemin des Dames had a further retreat been necessitated. We should not have captured the greater part of the French coal lands, not to mention the moral effect which would have followed further loss of French territory, after the swift victories of the right wing (Von Kluck) of the western German army. It is even doubtful whether we could successfully have conducted the war for four years."

SURRENDER A SURPRISE

He himself did not understand the significance of the quick surrender of Maubeuge until several days later, continues the German General.

"General Fournier was in an even less favorable position to understand it. When he decided on September 6 to capitulate and next day inaugurated the negotiations, Germany's main force lay south of the Marne. Neither General Joffre nor his armies had any great faith in the communications with Maubeuge, nor were they aware there was any occasion to incite the Governor of the fortress to further resistance at the cost of heavy and seemingly useless losses.

"I must decline to make theoretical deductions as to what might have resulted from seemingly wasted losses and resistance to the bitter end. In so far as I am able to judge, there are no grounds for finding General Fournier guilty of neglect of duty. The mutable, variable chances of war decided against him—that is his only guilt."

General von Zwehl considers that the only justification for not having sent regiments from the fortress to destroy railroads and bridges, would be that it would have reduced the morale of the garrison.

"Such regiments could have wreaked considerable damage before they were annihilated, and in the situation as it was at that time, the impression would have been great."

FORTS COULDN'T STAND

He confirms the testimony as to the effectiveness of the German artillery and declares that the concrete structure of most of the forts was unable to withstand the fire of the 30.5 and 42 centimeter cannon. However, he implies a criticism of General Fournier for not having made an earlier sortie.

"After the unsuccessful sortie of September 1, one hardly can find fault with General Fournier for not having made another attempt to break through. But in the real meaning of the word, Maubeuge never was surrounded, for the Seventh Reserve Corps, which was designated for the attack, had only ten battalions of infantry during the first five days after its appearance before the fortress.

"Why the Governor did not utilise the moment of weakness of which he might easily have become aware, in his own country and Belgium, and made the attack earlier and thus hindered the approach of the artillery is not known. I have no doubt he had his good reasons, which he might have found in the decrease in the fighting morale of his troops through the unfavorable news from the front."

General von Zwehl contradicts the testimony of the Paris trial that the Germans had a spy in Maubeuge, and declares that he had no information whatever as to conditions within the fortress.

Chekiang Tuchun Selects It To Start His Activities In Construction

80 MOW ALREADY BOUGHT

Road He Built Here When Acting As Commissioner To Assist Him

More than 80 mow of land near the Kiangwan railway station has been acquired by General Lu Yung-hsiang, Military Governor of Chekiang, to start his industrial activities, which will consist of the erection of a modern cotton mill, an electrical manufacturing plant, a weaving factory and several other enterprises. General Lu is now in the market for the purchase of more lands.

Besides General Lu, several Chinese are also contemplating certain industrial enterprises. A large amount of capital has been subscribed for the purpose, it is understood.

General Lu, who constructed the famous highway between Shanghai and Woosung, which has a branch to Kiangwan, has chosen the village, which boasts of a race course and golf rink, in view of its facilities in communications.

Lighting, sanitary, power and water systems are also being contemplated for the place.

England Suffering Shortage Of Butter

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 29.—The Food Ministry estimates that the total stock of imported butter which will be available on March 31, 1921, will not exceed 90,000 tons as compared with 200,000 tons before the war. The Ministry will continue to be the sole purchaser of butter imports.

Although a free market might bring more supplies, it is believed that the price would increase to from four to five shillings a pound.

SOOCHOW RAISES $40,000 FOR "Y" BUILDING FUND

Financial Campaign For New Home Of Y.M.C.A. Is Successfully Ended

(China Press Correspondence)

Soochow, July 30.—The financial campaign committee of the Soochow Y. M. C. A. has just announced the successful completion of their campaign which has been going on for several weeks to raise a building fund of $40,000.

Several weeks ago a deal was closed for a block of land 87 x 500 feet only one block from the Kwoen Zien Ka, the principal business street of the inner city. On this ideally located site a temporary building will at once be erected. Soochow will have the distinction of being the first city in China to start her Young Men's Christian Association in its own building.

BROCKMAN GETS CREDIT

The success of this campaign is due in no small measure to the quiet but unremitting work of Mr. W. W. Brockman, who has been resident secretary in Soochow for the past three years, cultivating the field and getting ready for just such a campaign. He was assisted in this work during the early months of the present year by Mr. E. M. Hayes, who has gone home for his furlough. But in the campaign proper the leading men of the city, in public and private life, old and young, took an active part.

The Committee which managed the campaign was composed of Messrs. Pur Tsin-siau, Commissioner of Education, Tsian Kyi, President of the Self-governing Society, Feng Tien-sung, President of the Chamber of Commerce, Pai Tsay-ur, President of the Soochow Branch, Shanghai Commercial and Savings Bank, Pur Tz-chi, President of the Pawn Shop Guild, Song Yu-pai, President of the Money Guild, Wang Yih-ur and Sun Gur-chin, prominent leaders of the Silk Guild, Wang Chi-hau, President of the Provincial Agricultural College, Gnay Sin-jar, editor of the Soochow Daily, Dr. Z. D. Dzung, Dr. Yui Sun-jar, L. G. Lea, and Chen Hu-ching of the board of directors. Toward the close of the campaign a dozen young men formed a team and raised about $5,000.

FOREIGNERS SWELL FUND

The first large subscriptions were sent in by the two leading foreign firms doing business in Soochow, The British American Tobacco Company and the Standard Oil Company. The first official to make a subscription was General Chu, Commissioner of Defense, who made a personal subscription of $1,000. Mr. Hsu Poh-ming subscribed $1,000. Mr. Pur, the Commissioner of Education, secured subscriptions amounting to $1,600. The Soochow Guild in Shanghai gave $5,200. Mr. C. L. Nieh of Shanghai, although not a Soochow man, gave $500.

The local secretaries, Mr. W. W. Brockman, Mr. T. S. Yao and Mr. K. Z. Loh, were assisted during the campaign by Mr. K. S. Zee, membership secretary of the Shanghai Y. M. C. A., who has been invited to become the general secretary of the Soochow association.

Nanchang Chamber Gives $10,000 To Chihli Warriors

Counterfeit Coins Flood City For The First Time Since Its Existence

(China Press Correspondence)

Nanchang, July 26.—As an expression of their gratitude for saving the city last week from the attack of Chang Ching-yao's troops, Chen Sheo-mei, Tseo Yi-cheng, Kung Mei-sheng and Wang Yi-hsien, representing the Chamber of Commerce, waited upon Governor Chen Kwang-yuan and asked him to present $10,000 from them to the Chihli Party. The money was voted by the Chamber and is being collected by the four men.

BAD COINS

Nanchang has been flooded with counterfeit Yuan Shih-k'ai dollars. Merchants report that all of them have been taken in by the bad coin and notices have been posted warning people to look out for it. It is thought that the coin is coming in from Hankow, but others think it is the same that has been passing lately in Tientsin. It is made of an alloy of aluminum and lead and is only detected with difficulty. These are the first Yuan Shih-k'ai counterfeits reported here.

NAVY Y.M.C.A. WILL BUILD NEW SHANGHAI HOME

navy men had been carried on for some time by several different persons but it was not continuous and permanent. The Y.M.C.A. was asked to take hold of the work and a secretary was provided. Later the work became one of chain of Navy Y's conducted by the International Committee of the Y.M.C.A. and a secretary provided by them has been in charge. Since that time the Shanghai committee has kept its needs for a permanent building before the International Committee by frequent appeals and statements of need.

ROTARIANS AID

The last request for a building was sent home through Mr. F. S. Brockman, of the International Committee, who during his stay in Shanghai met with the local committee and discussed the situation at some length. This appeal had the backing of the leading American organisations of Shanghai and was recently reinforced by a cablegram from the Rotary Club which is taking great interest in the efforts to provide a home for the sailor boys while in Shanghai.

While the work was inaugurated to care especially for American navy men yet the doors of the institution have been and will be open on the same terms to the sailors of all nationalities and many frequent the place during their stay in this port.

Recently the Shanghai committee has taken responsibility for the navy work in Hankow which is managed by a local committee under the Shanghai committee. In this way the work for the Yangtsze River comes under one general direction and can be managed to better advantage.

The secretaries of the Shanghai Navy 'Y' are Mr. W. R. Durbin and Miss Bell Breck, both of whom are experienced war workers.

The Committee of management is composed of Mr. C. W. Wentworth, Chairman; Dr. G. F. Fitch, Vice-Chairman; W. W. Lockwood, Secretary; N. A. Viloudaki, Treasurer, Geo. A. Fitch, Mrs. J. B. Sawyer, J. H. Black, Admiral Albert S. Gleaves, Hon. Edwin S. Cunningham, H. H. Cameron, J. B. Powell, F. R. Sites, W. S. Fleming and J. H. Dollar.

GERMANS HAD TO VIEW MEMORIAL TO HERO AT SPA

Belgian Patriot's Killing Is Recalled By Beautiful Tribute To Memory

TELL HOW KAISER RAVED

Villagers Recount Tales Of Monarch's Anger When He Realised Defeat

BY LAURENCE HILLS

Paris, June 20.—When the German delegates to the Spa conference approach the Villa la Fraineuse, where the Allied Supreme Council will hear the German explanation for failure to obey the terms of the Treaty of Versailles, they will walk or ride through the Avenue Amedee Hesse, which the Belgians have built to perpetuate the memory of an heroic victim of German hatred.

Along the tree-lined highway tablets are placed which tell the story of M. Hesse's patriotism and of how during the early days of the war, he flaunted his beliefs before the German occupants of Liege, evading for more than a year their efforts to catch him. Also they tell of his numerous successful espionage campaigns.

M. Hesse placed confidence in a German spy, whom he believed to be a Belgian, in 1915. This enemy obtained proof of his direction of an extensive campaign for the Allies. M. Hesse was arrested and faced a firing squad, condemning the invasion of Belgium as the shots rang out.

IN A PICTURESQUE SPOT

The selection of the villa, which overlooks a beautiful lake, maintains the allied diplomatic custom of seeking the most charming sites for the peace deliberations regardless of cost. The villa is the property of M. Poltzergraux, formerly Mayor of Spa, and is of the style of Louis XVI., with dignified salons and replete with marble pillars and walls.

The French delegation has been assigned to the Hotel Britannique, which for a time served as the general headquarters of the German army, and in the dining hall of which the German Crown Prince declared with more solemnity than sincerity that his august parent would never renounce the Prussian throne.

With a queer twist of fate the Belgians were assigned the Villa Neuboise, where the Kaiser in October, 1918, nervously awaited news of Gen. Ludendorff's last stand and where he received the warning that the German forces were no longer able to oppose Marshal Foch's steady advance.

Villagers still recount tales of how the Kaiser, when the Hindenburg line was captured and the news reached him that the revolution was growing in Germany, raved like a madman through the villa's halls until midnight, cursing his aids and defying them to approach him with their "insincere, cursed consolations."

The Italian and the Japanese delegations will be lodged at farms near the Villa la Fraineuse, while the American delegation, if President Wilson decides to have the customary "observer," will be lodged in one of the luxurious hotels with which the famous watering place abounds.

The Belgian Government is making extensive preparations for the entertainment of the delegates and newspaper correspondents who will report from this out-of-the-way village what may be the most important of the Supreme Council's conferences. Even the thermal establishments have been taken over for the visitors and are being furnished to accommodate the foreign newspaper correspondents, who will have the choice of either hot or cold showers at all hours of the day, according to the festivities of the previous night.

BY VIOLA VERCLAIRE

Sunday's baseball game between the Bolsheviki and the Destroyer Lea teams turned out to be nothing more than good hitting practice for the locals. It resembled, more than anything else, a bunch of athletes training for a Marathon race, as "Trotsky" Dodge's men did nothing but run around the bases all afternoon.

It is understood that they hunted their way into the ownership of a brewery, there being a prize of a bottle of beer for each man reaching first base on a hunt.

This kind of game should be discouraged, as they are not beneficial in any way to the players, and the people who go out to see the games must certainly consider such afternoon wasted.

It is too bad that there are not more teams around who can put up some kind of opposition to the local boys, so the interest in the sport would not slacken.

Shanghai has a good team this year; in fact as good as almost any semi-professional ball team you would find in cities at home with the same English-speaking population.

Let's all get together and pull for the Tientsin-Dairen series!

Following is the tabulated score.

Destroyer Lea	A.B.	R.	H.	P.O.	A.

Just Dope

Today the second game between the Bolsheviks and the Regulars will be called at 5 p.m. sharp. This will be a very interesting game, because the Regulars will be strengthened by the appearance of all their men, who will be out to avenge their defeat of last Saturday.

"Pop" Tinkham pitched a very fine game on Sunday against the sailors, Uncle Sam's gobs getting only three hits off his delivery.

Most of the Regulars were out to see this game, displaying more "pep" while in the grandstand than they generally do while on the field.

Doc Downs wishes to announce that the grandstand is plenty large enough to hold all those desiring to see the games, and that the press box was not built for spectators.

* * *

It is very hard to keep a correct score of the game, especially the kind of games played here so far, he says, with any interruptions whatsoever.

Union Team Wins From International

Last Saturday afternoon a goodly crowd of baseball fans journeyed down to Siccawei, in spite of the boiling weather, and saw the Union Club trim the International Club on Nanyang grounds by a score of 16-8. The Unionites had an easy time, as is evident from the score.

The Internationals were forced to change their hurler four times duing the course of the game, yet were unable to stop the heavy Union batters.

The game was featured with hard hitting by both teams, two snappy double plays—one by each side, and several nice exhibitions of base-running.

The score by innings follows:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	Total
Union	2	0	5	0	0	2	3	0	4	16
Inter.	1	0	0	2	0	1	1	1	2	8

Evers Happy; Attains Life-Long Wish To Join New York Giants

Johnny Evers, the "Little Trojan," is happy. For he has attained his life-long ambition to be a member of the New York Giants.

Back in the old days when the Cubs and Giants were bitter rivals, Johnny was a member of the Cubs.

In 1908 it was his quick wit that beat the Giants out of a pennant.

Though he has been arrayed against the Giants in the past Evers has always been an admirer of McGraw and has waited many years for the chance of becoming a member of the New York club.

Johnny's job with the Giants is that of trainer. He will impart his valued knowledge, attained through years of experience on a pennant winning and fighting club, to the New York players.

In his prime, Evers was probably the smartest player in the game. He is here shown wearing his new Giant uniform for the first time.

RAIN COMPELS HONG DOUBLES POSTPONEMENT

Finalists Will Attempt To Decide 1920 Championship This Afternoon

A large and picturesque assemblage of tennis enthusiasts gathered at the Cercle Sportif Francaise yesterday afternoon to witness the finals of the Hong doubles matches, between Messrs. W. S. A. Pott and W. P. Roberts (St. John's Univ.) and Messrs. J. Tanaka and S. Nakajima (Mitsui Bussan Kaisha) for the 1920 championship.

The crowd was doomed to disappointment, however, for the morning thunder showers, which evidently visited the neighborhood of the French Club a bit more vehemently than any other part of the city, so saturated the courts that even the blistering afternoon sun was unable to dry them out in time for play.

After waiting thirty minutes and again testing the rain-soaked court, it was decided that the match would have to be put over until this afternoon, beginning at the same hour, 5 p.m.

MAY FORCE DEFAULT

Because of this postponement it is barely possible that the St. John's team may have to lose the championship by default. Mr. Roberts, it seems, was scheduled to leave Shanghai for a month on an important business trip this evening, following the match. He has arranged to delay his departure by 24 hours, but seems to feel that further postponement is impossible.

Hence, if J. Pluvius or any other interfering element or condition compels another cancellation this afternoon, the St. John's team will probably not be able to toe the scratch for at least another month: and it is seriously doubted whether the rules are elastic enough to permit a postponement of that length of time.

PRAY FOR SUNSHINE

This would be indeed be unfortunate; for no true sporting blood of the kind which has been evidenced throughout the playing of this year's Hong doubles cares to see a match—especially the finals, carrying the title for 1920—won or lost by default.

However, rules are rules—so the tennis fans can only pray for fair weather today, in order that the match may be decided on its merits.

'Bad Grammar' Of House Bill Draws A Veto From Wilson

Washington, June 2.—Because of "bad grammer" President Wilson today vetoed a bill to make the interstate transportation of immoral motion picture films a felony. The President in his veto message said the transportation of a phrase in the bill made it ambiguous.

The House on receiving the veto message, conducted an investigation and found that an enrolling clerk had transposed the phrase. The bill as "corrected" by the President was repassed tonight by the House.

Shipping Board Boat To Be Launched Today

Invitations that have been issued for the event announce that the tender Alexandra will leave the Customs jetty at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon to convey guests to the Kiangnan yards.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

Don't Poison Baby.

FORTY YEARS AGO almost every mother thought her child must have paregoric or laudanum to make it sleep. These drugs will produce sleep, and a few drops too many will produce the sleep from which there is no waking. Many are the children who have been killed or whose health has been ruined for life by paregoric, laudanum and morphine, each of which is a narcotic product of opium. Druggists are prohibited from selling either of the narcotics named to children at all, or to anybody without labeling them "poison." The definition of "narcotic" is: "A medicine which relieves pain and produces sleep, but which in poisonous doses produces stupor, coma, convulsions and death." The taste and smell of medicines containing opium are disguised, and sold under the names of "Drops," "Cordials," "Soothing Syrups," etc. You should not permit any medicine to be given your physician know of what to your children unless you or it is composed. Castoria does not contain narcotics.

The signature of Chas. H. Fletcher guarantees genuine Castoria.

Physicians Recommend Castoria.

"I have frequently prescribed Castoria for common ailments of children with good results."
W. A. CRANDALL, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y.

"I find your Castoria is very beneficial in the treatment of children's ailments."
F. DAVIS, M. D., Chicago, Ill.

"As the father of thirteen children I certainly know something about your great medicine and, aside from my own family experience, I have, in my years of practice found Castoria a popular and efficient remedy in almost every home."
WM. J. MCCRANN, M. D., Omaha, Neb.

"I object to what are called patent medicines, where the maker alone knows what stuff is put in them, but I know the formula of your Castoria and advise its use in proper cases. I judge it to be a very useful, as well as harmless family medicine."
N. B. SIZER, M. D., Brooklyn, N. Y.

BRITONS AGAIN LOOK TO U.S. FOR WAR DEBT HELP

Worried By Italy And Servia Seeking Favors Given France By Lloyd George

STRAIN TAX ENDURANCE

Chance Seen That Britain And America May Have To Help Pay German Indemnity

London, June 20.—British eyes again are turned across the Atlantic in connection with a remission of the war debts, temporarily or otherwise. The question which supposedly was settled at the Hythe conference and the statement by Andrew Bonar Law, Government spokesman, in the House of Commons that Great Britain expects to carry on her own affairs irrespective of German reparation payments has again been stirred up by insistence on the part of Italy, Servia and other allies that they obtain the same privilege of withholding payments to England as Premier Lloyd George accorded France at Hythe.

The Westminster Gazette, the organ of the Asquith group, which has been loudest all along in demanding revision of the treaty's economic clauses along the lines of John Maynard Keynes's book "The Economic Aspects of the Peace," heads a leader "Political Arithmetic and Business Considerations," in which it says that Italy, Servia, Rumania and probably Greece, Portugal and Belgium will follow France's suit and England cannot differentiate among her debtors.

"That is to say, all these countries will ask to be excused from paying us unless the Germans pay them," it says. "We meanwhile will have to pay the United States what we borrowed on behalf of those countries from her, and unless she is willing to share the burden, which at present seems unlikely, we shall not ask or expect relief from her."

BRITONS PAY LARGEST TAX

The Gazette proceeds to show that the income tax yield from the British tax-payers alone is thirty times as much as the Frenchman pays, while, meanwhile, the Briton has cheerfully shouldered the payment of his own war costs while writing off any payments from Germany. It warns that the Continent, at least to some extent, believes that the patience of the British taxpayer is as inexhaustible as his funds, and denounces the argument that Britain has profited most from the war and consequently, should pay more.

It calls attention to the fact that Great Britain's allies are not only asking the remission of their debts, but are seeking further loans as advances against reconstruction, secured by German reparation payments.

"This can be obtained only by raising a loan on the securities of the German indemnities, and the loan must be international, which means, in practice, that it must be backed by Great Britain, which must induce America to come in," says the Gazette.

"The loan is possible only in one form, and that is a guarantee by the Powers that Germany can pay, and if Germany fails to pay the Powers will have to pay. On the strength of this it is hoped that American and European financiers will come forward with their own money at 6 percent or whatever rate is fixed."

The Gazette cautions that the amount imposed on Germany must not be excessive, because if Germany does not pay, the Allies will have to pay, "which means, in practice, Great Britain and America, if the latter consents to come in."

"Thus an exaggeration of the German capacity to pay would lead to the consequence of these two Powers being put in the position of paying the chief part of the German indemnity themselves," it says.

It declares that French and other European statesmen who deal in glib generalities to the effect that Germany can and must pay all the costs of the war miss the arithemtic of the situation.

"Premier Millerand may be applauded for his rhetorical triumphs in the Chamber of Deputies and as a brave man for boarding the British lion, but that won't balance his budget," it says. "If he wants to do that he must come down to earth and treat business as business."

The Gazette decries statesmen who, unable to meet expenses at home, are undertaking new commitments abroad, objecting to a settlement of the Russian imbroglio, countenancing new wars and turning the cold shoulder to the League of Nations, and "are continuing the cut and thrust diplomacy of pre-war days, with its inevitable corollary, the crushing burden of armaments." It demands a clear statement of British policy based on sanity and safety, and ends the article by saying that "we, too, have our gravest financial problems, and "our capacity to pay must not be exaggerated."

MISSIONARY IS DROWNED WHILE IN CHEFOO SURF

Closing Exercises Are Held By Three Schools Of The China Inland Mission

(China Press Correspondence)

Chefoo, July 30.—This week has seen the closing exercises of the three schools of the China Inland Mission take place and large numbers gather to witness them. Three afternoons, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday were utilised for the Preparatory School, the Girls' School and the Boys' School respectively.

On Monday the large room of the Preparatory School was overcrowded and much of the enjoyment was lost in consequence of the heat. The children did well, and all the items gave satisfaction. The drill in the playground was good and very amusing from the way in which the smaller children entered into it. Dr Hearne was the Chairman and Mrs. Hearne presented the prizes.

The Girls' School was also packed, and this was only to be expected. On these occasions the girls' singing is of the best, and is natural that many persons assemble to hear them. The program was excellent. The recitations were also good but one of them was far too long for a hot afternoon. Mr. J. H. Stocke made an excellent Chairman and his address to the students was one of the best ever delivered at the School. The drill on the Tennis Court was capital and gave entire satisfaction to the many who had gathered in anticipation of getting a good time.

PROGRAM IN OPEN AIR

On Wednesday the Boys' School presented its program. As everything is done in the open air, there is no difficulty in seating the people, and thus a larger number than was present the two previous afternoons assembled in front of the school. Here, singing, recitations and piano playing occupied the first three quarters of an hour. Then followed the Chairman's speech, Dr. Howard Taylor being the speaker. Mrs. Howard Taylor presented the beautiful books to the winners and then a move was made to the quadrangle.

Here the boys gave one of their displays of drill. First they went through a series of motions with poles. Then the Seniors performed an extraordinary number of evolutions with Indian clubs. These were followed with Semaphore signaling, and then the whole school went through ten different dumb-bell exercises with frequent changes involving over 50 different movements in less than seven minutes. The time announced for these was nine minutes. Gymnastic marching by specially selected boys, and then marching by the whole school, wound up a magnificent display.

MISSIONARY DROWNS

Yesterday morning about 9:30 o'clock one of the visiting missionaries of the China Inland Mission drowned as the result of heart failure while in the sea. She had gone down bathing with two companions. Apparently while they were dressing she was seized with heart failure, for one of her companions saw her floating on the water and thinking things were not quite right ran down to see. She waded out and brought the unconscious figure to shore.

While some members of the party went for doctors others assisted with artificial respiration. Four doctors were quickly in attendance but although all known remedies were tried it was apparent that life was extinct.

The British Consul held an inquest later in the day and in the evening the remains of the deceased lady were laid to rest in the East Beach cemetery.

HOT AT CHEFOO

Mr. George Trumbull and Mrs. Trumbull are staying in Chefoo just at present. The former, who is the head of the Sunday School Times, is conducting a series of meetings in the Prayer-Room of the China Inland Mission. A large number of visiting, as well as resident missionaries, are attending the meetings.

Chefoo is exceedingly hot and the only place to get cool is in the sea. Bathing is a popular pastime and the beach at certain hours of the day is quite a sight. The inability of the electric light company to provide electricity during the day prevents Chefoo from having electric fans going. This lack and the absence of good telephonic service are two crying needs of the place.

U.S. AIDED ITALY IN PERFECTING U-BOAT KILLER

Elia Brought Depth Charge Invention Here After We Entered The War

IMPROVEMENTS IN BOMB

Original Contrivance Was Of Two Parts, But Changes Were Made

Rome, June 20.—The depth charge, which played havoc with German submarines and which was one of the big factors in winning the war, was the combined product of Italian and American genius. Commander G. E. Elia, of the Italian navy, was the inventor and constructor of the first depth charge. Later this powerful weapon of war was taken up and perfected by American naval engineers.

Commander Elia is one of the foremost naval inventors. His name is known to virtually all naval men, for there is no navy in the world in which some of his inventions are not used. He has received high honors from almost every civilized nation. The Italian Government several years ago conferred upon him "for his remarkable contributions to the development of naval science" a gold medal which is the highest honor given in Italy for distinguished service to the nation.

Soon after the United States entered the war Elia, with the consent of the Italian Government, took his newly invented bomb to Washington and put it at the disposal of the American navy. American naval men began experimenting with it about June, 1917. The original depth bomb was composed of two parts, the float and the charge, held together, when separated, by a cable arrangement. The American improvements consisted principally of the elimination of the cable and the addition of certain contrivances which made the charge explode at the desired hydrostatic pressure.

Commander Elia spoke freely on his invention, its improvement by American experts and its effectiveness to the correspondent of The Sun and New York Herald, but requested that no attempt be made to divulge technical details.

"Tell the American people," he said, "that I merely tried to do my little share for the common cause. I am very happy that I had the opportunity of working with American inventors and naval men and that by combining our efforts we succeeded in accomplishing something. Tell them also that I was most generously compensated by America for whatever service I was able to render her."

Lieut. J. F. Hall, now in New York, who a short time ago came to Rome to visit Commander Elia, was one of the first American naval officers to experiment with the Elia depth charge.

J. Frew Hall, former Lieutenant in the American navy, who is now vice-president of the Wyman Steamship Corporation, 60 Broad street, said:

"The Elia depth charge, with a few simple but important modifications, became the 'hydrostatic depth charge,' which we used with such splendid results against the German submarines. I do not mind being quoted to this effect, especially because I feel that Italy has not been given just credit for the magnificent part she played in the war on the land, on the seas and in the air, as well as in the fields of invention."

PSYCHIC LEARNS LINCOLN QUITS THE REPUBLICANS

Louis Benjamin, Who Had Hyslop On Astral Phone, Gets Flash From 20th Plane

UROES BIG LEAGUE PLAY

Repeats Phrases From First Inaugural And Gettysburg Addresses

New York, July 2.—Abrahain Lincoln has quit being a Republican and, up in the Twentieth Plane—an astral region peopled by souls discovered by the Society for Psychical Research—he is hoping the Democrats at San Francisco will pick a good man, for with a good candidate and the League of Nations it will mean an overwhelming Democratic victory "and rejoicing" on the Twentieth Plane.

Before anything more on the political views of the Twentieth Plane is disclosed, it should be said that Lincoln got into touch with this world through Louis Benjamin, a Toronto traveling man "on the road," the same Benjamin who recently talked with Dr. James Hervey Hyslop and got a physic "beat" on the doctor's own organisation. A short while ago a group of the psychic faithful gathered in the offices of the Society for Psychical Research, down in Twenty-third Street, and Louis closed his eyes and breathed heavily and everybody got gooseflesby and—hark!

Samuel Taylor Coleridge, who nearly always gets Louis Benjamin on the psychic phone when he has anything to reveal, came soulfully into the gathering, and without punctuation began:

"And so Abraham Lincoln will give to the spirit of your age a message that will go far beyond the boundaries of this room and become to some extent the current thought of the people of the United States passing through the most critical period in all American history. Abraham Lincoln will now address you."

Then, through the mouth of Louis Benjamin and in the voice of S. Taylor Coleridge, in the rooms of the Society for Psychical Research and from the Twentieth Plane, Abraham Lincoln said:

"My fellow citizens of all the planes, it is a joy and an inspiration to be in your presence for the purpose of uttering some simple facts that will help us to construct ideas that will enable at least the astral world to place itself on record in reference to some of the vital issues of the great material world you inhabit—the earth."

Well, with Mr. Benjamin passing it along, the martyr President discussed the relations of capital and labor, but really did not show any new goods in that line. Then somebody dragged politics into the seance—the Republican Convention was just over and the Democratic was coming soon.

"My friends of the earth plane," said Lincion in the voice of Coleridge and out of the mouth of Benjamin, "the great nation in which you live, the United States," is passing through the most critical period in all her history. what is done at the Democratic Convention, soon to meet—for it is there we look for a great humanitarian, idealist, to become a leader of the people—will decide whether the United States will forge ahead, face held high, facing the light of the heavens, or, head held down in shame, that is what will happen.

"I was a Republican when on the earth plane. I am not a partisan now. Yet there are some glorious pages in the history of the Republican Party that I still adore. In the last convention of the Republican Party on the earth plane they met not in solemn deliberation—certain interests were at work.

"A candidate has been selected. I will not say any mean things of the physical living—far be it from me to be uncharitable to another human being—but I will say this: There is just a little regret at the action of that convention, for we on the heavenly plane did fervently pray that the great United States, dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal, conceived in liberty, great nation, wealthy, massive in the strength of her great men, we did fervently pray that such a nation should be a member of the League of Nations and should ratify the Treaty of Versailles.

"We did pray that divinely inspired men like Wilson and Lloyd George and Clemencean and others should so draw up the constitution of a League of Nations that it was a form of Government of men so that forever war would be abolished. The League became a fact, the constitution was written into the life of your times and as yet the United States has not ratified that treaty.

"I make this, what may seem to be a bold pronouncement: The women of the United States who fortunately exercise by the millions of their franchise, the ministers, the humanitarians, the idealists, the educated people, the great vast majority, the educated masters of the people of the United States, overwhelmingly in the next Presidential contest will vote for the ratification of the League of Nations; of that we are sure.

"NOT INFALLIBLE"

"We are not infallible," continued Lincoln, via Coleridge-Benjamin; "we are not omnipotent. If I be wrong in my surmise and the United States fellows that speak so glibly about the Monroe Doctrine; if that is their course, then I say for the next century let my native land hang its head in shame.

"I said I was not a partisan. Some of you may disagree with me. I can but express the truth that lies within my soul. These thoughts—oh, I wish that they could be heard by millions of my fellow men, souls on the earth plane! For what lack of wisdom lies in the course that would reject that for which all the nations fought and bled, the United States not the least, giving their sons by the hundreds of thousands.

"The League of Nations, we are told, would be detrimental to the best interests of the United States. The constitution of that League, we are informed, is a poor one, a selfish one. Little do the people realise that constitution, closely read and studied, reveals the fact that as a party to that constitution the United States can change those features of the constitution which it does not like. Do not let her reject the most important historical document that has been written during the last 300 years of history.

"This I will be bold indeed in the expression of my thought to say: If the Democratic Party—I am not a partisan now, parties mean nothing to me; principles of man count, though—if the Democratic Party chooses a great man of light and learning, who will go to the people on the platform of the ratification of the Treaty of Versailles, then overwhelmingly will he be elected, and there will be rejoicing here on the Twentieth Plane."

That's about all, it appears, but somebody did say: "Abraham Lincoln, would you mind if we spread these thoughts of yours through the press?" and the answer in the voice of Coleridge and through the lips of Benjamin was:

"There is this note of pathos, not that I am pessimistic at all, that one must use in answering such a question, that if you publish in the press of the United States my message and my desire, very few would be concerned by it; very few would be influenced by it."

Strike Situation In Denmark Serious; Troops Guard King

Following the labor call for a general strike throughout Denmark, troops have been stationed about the Royal Palace at Copenhagen to guard King Christian in the event of a possible revolt, according to reports received here. The photograph shows King Christian outside the Palace surrounded by officers of the Third Dragoon Regiment. The King is shown on the left.

SUMMER AND THE BABY.

Hot Weather Perils And How To Avert Them

The summer months are the most dangerous to infants and young children. Cholera infantum, colic, diarrhoea and dysentery, come on so quickly during the hot season that often the little one is beyond aid almost before the parents realise he is ill. No other medicine is of such aid to mothers during hot weather as Baby's Own Tablets, the Canadian children's remedy. Read what Mrs. W. S. Bassam, of Kingston, Ontario, says about them.

"I began using Baby's Own Tablets when my little girl was about three months old," Mrs. Bassam writes. "At that time the child had indigestion badly. She was vomiting and had diarrhoea constantly. Food did her no good and she was very thin.

"I did not find any medicine to help until we tried Baby's Own Tablets; then the vomiting and diarrhoea ceased and she began to improve almost at once. Since then whenever her stomach is out of order we give her the Tablets and the result is always all that we desire. They are the very best medicine I have ever used for a child."

Baby's Own Tablets can be had of druggists, or post free, 60 cents the vial, from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai.

Didn't Like the End of Her Nose—Had it Sliced Off

An Expert in Plastic Surgery Performing an Operation on the Nose.

How Grand Opera Prima Donna Margaret Namara Had Her Face Changed to Surprise Her Playwright Husband---and How Very Surprised Indeed He Was!

How the Prima Donna's Nose Was Altered.

2—The Edges (A, B) Drawn Together, Thus Shortening the Nose the Depth of the Part Removed.

3—Side View of the Nose Showing the Wedge-Shaped Part Removed.

4—The Operation Completed—the Dotted Lines Showing the End of the Nose That Has Now Disappeared.

On the Left, Madame Namara's Profile as It Looked Before the End of Her Nose Was Sliced Off; on the Right, the Prima Donna as She Looks To-day.

WHEN a gentleman falls in love with a lady, does he fall in love with her "as is" or as she may remake herself as her fancy wills? When a man falls in love with a brown or golden haired fairy, will his love change should the fairy change her hair to red? Just what effect do the changes a wife may make in her physical appearance have on the man who married her as she was? This is a most complicated question, but think what might have happened had Cleopatra's nose been longer or shorter!

Margaret Namara, the grand opera singer, wife of Guy Bolton, playwright, is able to answer this question to her own satisfaction or dis-satisfaction, for she has learned through a sad and painful experience, that her husband prefers her beauty as it was when he married her and not as a famous nose specialist recently made it over.

Namara, beautiful though she was, a brilliant brunette, with lovely, languorous blue eyes, simply grew tired of seeing the same face every time she looked into her mirror. Besides she thought the tip of her nose was too long.

"If," she confided to a group of intimates, "I am tired of seeing my face, always the same, surely Guy must be, and so I think I'll have myself changed. You know the old joke of the husband seeing the same face opposite him at breakfast every day, forever and ever? Well, here's where I give my husband a new morning view."

Unluckily Namara—or Mrs. Bolton, as she is in private life—did not consult her husband about her plans, but started out to have her face changed according to her own ideas. Studying her features carefully and intently she decided that a new nose should be her first objective, and so, hugging her secret closely to her breast she sallied forth one day to a specialist in noses, a man who can perform the most amazing miracles with one's physiognomy; in fact, he can change a Roman into a Grecian profile with no trouble at all, and pug noses become aristocratically aquiline practically overnight. In a word, this genius is a sculptor in noses.

To him Namara hied herself and told her tale of woe—or, perhaps, we should say nose. "I have decided that my nose is too long; my soul yearns for a quaint retrousse effect; please do your best," she explained to the specialist. As an afterthought she asked, "Will it hurt?"

"Not at all," replied the doctor. "The operation is absolutely painless, but, of course, there will be some slight soreness while the wound is healing."

All surgeons speak optimistically and casually of operations and wounds.

The day for the ordeal arrived, and a gloriously sunshiny day it was! It seemed as if even Mother Nature was happy in the thought that some of her crass handiwork was to be revised. Namara kissed her three-year-old daughter good-by more warmly than usual, smiled tenderly at her husband's picture on her dressing table, and went forth to be transformed. All was in readiness in the sculptor-doctor's antiseptic operating room.

Ether? No, indeed, nothing so serious as that. All cosmetic operations of the nose should be done under local anesthesia, say the modern facial surgeons. Just a few drops of cocaine, a weak solution—and Namara's nose became like a bit of stone. There was not the slightest sensation or pain. With her own blue eyes and with the aid of a mirror she watched the surgeon cutting into her nose.

Entering the nose through and under the nostrils with a thin knife called a bistoury and a pair of angular scissors the surgeon cut a crescent-shaped piece of the septum, mucous membrane, cartilage, flesh and all. It was precisely as though he were a dressmaker making a gusset. The tip of the nose was left intact; all the surgeon did was to remove the surplus material.

Then he drew the tip of the nose to the stump of the upper part and sewed them together with sutures of white silk, carefully clipping off the resultant fold of skin. And here is the part of the operation on which the surgeon's reputation for skill will stand or fall—the joining of the flaps of skin. Will it leave a scar? If it does the operation is unsuccessful. Anybody, say the plastic surgeons, can perform the cutting operation. The tools are of the simplest and include nothing not common to the ordinary surgeon's kit. The technic, while it must be of the carefulest, is not out of the ordinary—until it comes to joining the edges of the skin.

The edges must be carefully matched, sewn with a curved needle and held in place by strips of court-plaster until the healing process is complete. Then, if the work has been properly done and has been thoroughly antiseptic throughout, not the faintest suspicion of a scar, not even a fine line will appear to mark the place where the nose has been severed. After the operation the patient must wait for two or three days with the face criss-crossed by a lattice-work of adhesive tape, and then the tape is removed, the stitches of the suture taken out and the success or failure of the whole operation revealed.

At the moment when the plaster was being attached a dreadful thought entered the patient's mind. "I have to sing out West a week from to-day. You are sure everything will be all right by then?"

Frankly, the surgeon looked surprised. "My noses always heal within a week or ten days, but I never hurry them, and it might have been better to have put off the operation until you had more free time, but it is too late now," and he proceeded calmly with his delicate lattice effect.

With the last strip in place, the prima donna called for a mirror. The result was disappointing, of course, for the plaster acted as a complete disguise. But even so, the lady's nose showed a considerable difference in length and shape and her satisfaction was evident.

Home to Great Neck she went, wearing a smile of happiness and a thick veil. Mr. Bolton was away at the time and Namara's plans included having her wound completely healed by the time he came back. Alas, he returned unexpectedly, and his first vision of his made-over wife included the lattice work, which just naturally spoiled the reunion.

However, being an experienced husband, Mr. Bolton refused to commit himself while the operation was, as he expressed it, "in an unfinished condition." He did go so far, however, as to say that he had always liked her original nose and had fallen in love with her as she had been, which seemed somewhat untactful to his wife, but she thought of the future and said nothing or very little.

It happened, unfortunately, that Namara's nose took longer to heal than is usual, and the morning of the day on which she was to start West arrived with the lattice work still in place. A visit to the specialist was not encouraging. Being an artist and a careful surgeon, he refused to hurry matters. "No matter whether or not you sing, you must keep the plaster in place. I cannot permit any tampering with my work," were practically his parting words to the singer as she left him to go to her train.

Friend husband was sympathetic, but also firm, and added his warnings to those given by the surgeon. Which accounts for the fact that Madame Namara, late prima donna of the Chicago Opera Company and one of our most attractive concert singers, appeared before her Western audiences with her nose very heavily powdered. But as her concerts were evening affairs, this did not detract from her beauty and neither did her voice suffer. In truth, many who heard her sing said afterward that her voice had never been so poignantly beautiful, so touched with tragic expressiveness as during this tour.

"And it ought to have been," commented the singer on her return, "for, believe me, I suffered! No, not pain, but in my spirit."

During Madame Namara's Western trip her wound finally healed, and she returned to New York without the now familiar lattice-work bandage. Mr. Bolton met her at the train and stared in amazement. "If it had not been for your hat and fur coat I should never have known you. What have you done to yourself?" he demanded.

"Why, it's my nose, you foolish boy. Don't you like it now that the bandage is gone?" "Like it!" he yelled. "No, not at all. I married your real nose, not a done-over one!"

"I had it done for you. I did not want you to grow tired of seeing the same face every day," tearfully explained the opera singer.

"I tell you I married the other nose. I fell in love with you when you had it and was used to it. How do I know that I'm going to fall in love with this new nose you are springing on me?" again demanded the husband.

On the way to their car they met an old friend of Namara's, who looked at her without a sign, then gave a close look at Mr. Bolton, hesitated, and finally said:

"Why, my dear girl, what has happened? I did not recognize you."

"It's—it's—no—I mean it was my nose. I had it sliced off—no, I mean I had the end of it sliced off, and now my husband tells me he doesn't love me—no—I mean the nose. Oh, dear; oh, dear!"

There isn't the least doubt that Namara's change of face came as a shock to her husband, for, as he explained, he had grown used to her appearance, and now whenever he looks at her it is as though he was meeting a stranger. Of course, in time he will grow used to the change, and perhaps the day will come when he will forget that any transformation was made!

Naturally such an unprecedented action on the part of a lady fair gives rise to a certain amount of gossip. In musical circles, where temperaments clash hourly, one hears that Madame Namara has always been slightly jealous of the stage beauties who surround her husband; and gossips whisper that her remarkably successful trip to Mexico City last year was cut short because a dear friend telegraphed her that a certain some one was making ardent eyes at friend husband. And this same story was republished when the singer cancelled several Pacific Coast dates and returned unexpectedly to New York.

Madame Namara knows all this gossip and laughs merrily over it. "If the world really wants to know why I hurried home, just tell it the truth. I came back because I was homesick for my—well, my baby! It came over me all of a sudden, that the money I was making was not in it with a sight of my—baby. And, too, Guy kept telegraphing me to hurry home so as to see the opening of his new play. But, of course, the gossips will much prefer the vamp story!"

Namara, however, has but one prayer at present, which is that her nose will grow back into its former shape.

Yes, after all her suffering she wants her original profile back! Which might be a disappointment to the surgeon and, who knows, perhaps to her husband as well, now that he has become used to the new one. Men—at least, husbands—are kittle cattle.

Madame Yorska, the Opera Singer, Before and After Having Her Nose Straightened.

"If it had not been for your hat and fur coat I should never have known you," Namara's husband declared. "What have you done to yourself?"

Catalogued for sale—2,025,083 lbs. (about 904 tons).

Sold—941,137 lbs. (about 420 tons).

There has been a further fall in prices since our last report, on account of still weaker news from the consuming markets. A large amount of covering took place at the auctions this week, however, and the market remained fairly active in consequence.

Standard Ribbed Smoked Sheet opened at 73 cents, rising to 73½, showing a decline of 3 cents on the week. A few lots realised 74 cents. There was again a very poor demand for F.A.Q. and Off Quality Sheet, and the few buyers who wished to cover short sales were able to do so at their own prices on account of the lack of competition. Sellers were not very willing to meet the market at the lower level, however, and a considerable quantity of this grade was again withdrawn.

Standard 1st Latex Crepe sold on a parity with sheet, also making a decline of 3 cents on the week.

Fine Brown and Lower Grades of Crepe met with a good demand, a number of "bears" evidently being anxious to cover short sales. These grades sold at round about last week's prices.

The feeling, at the continuation this morning, was easier, but yesterday's prices were maintained.

Catalogued for sale—2,025,083 lbs. (about 904 tons).

Sold—941,137 lbs. (about 420 tons).

There has been a further fall in prices since our last report, on account of still weaker news from the consuming markets. A large amount of covering took place at the auctions this week, however, and the market remained fairly active in consequence.

Standard Ribbed Smoked Sheet opened at 73 cents, rising to 73⅛, showing a decline of 3 cents on the week. A few lots realised 74 cents. There was again a very poor demand for F.A.Q. and Off Quality Sheet, and the few buyers who wished to cover short sales were able to do so at their own prices on account of the lack of competition. Sellers were not very willing to meet the market at the lower level, however, and a considerable quantity of this grade was again withdrawn.

Standard 1st Latex Crepe sold on a parity with sheet, also making a decline of 3 cents on the week.

Fine Brown and Lower Grades of Crepe met with a good demand, a number of "bears" evidently being anxious to cover short sales. These grades sold at round about last week's prices.

The feeling, at the continuation this morning, was easier, but yesterday's prices were maintained.

The Chinese Eastern Railway And South Manchuria Railway

(Contributed)

ONE of the most interesting and at the same time most complicated problems of the day in the Far East is the Chinese Eastern Railway and its control. It must be remembered that upon the official repudiation, on the part of Russia of the so called "Cassini Convention" of 1896, the railway ceased or should have ceased to have any political status. The subsequent agreement of September, 1896 in all its points and clauses indicated a commercial rather than a strategic and political enterprise. The construction concession was granted by the Chinese government to the Russo-Chinese Bank on behalf of the Chinese Eastern Railway Company. This company was to be formed of Russian and Chinese shareholders. The agreement was for the most part similar in all respects to most of the railway agreements in China as instance those secured by the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation on behalf of the British China Corporation, namely a commercial enterprise entailing no political or strategic rights.

The unfortunate and untoward events of 1900 gave the Russian government its first opportunity of illegitimately altering or modifying this purely commercial status, as armed troops had to be moved over the partially constructed line to help cope with what was termed the "Boxer Uprising." At that time such movement of troops over the line can be justified as the Chinese government through its impotence to cope with the Boxer outbreak left itself in the position of an enemy to the Allies hastening to the relief of the Legations.

By the mistaken action of the Russian government during and just before the Russo-Japanese war in using a purely commercial undertaking, in the country of a friendly state, as a means of moving armed forces and materials of war against an enemy, Russia undoubtedly gave Japan an excuse for claiming the Russian rights in what is now the South Manchurian Railway. Though Japan was given the excuse for such acquisition, it is more than doubtful if she has any justification in law for seizing private-owned property, which undoubtedly the railway was, in accordance with agreement of 1896.

If the illegal action of the Russians justified alienation of the line on the ground of breach of privilege, it seems only reasonable to suppose that the alienation of the line should have been not to Japan but to China, under the rights of reversion. There is nothing in the original agreement permitting any alienation on the part of the Chinese Eastern Railway Company to any other party but the sovereign state of China, which originally granted the concession, as a purely commercial enterprise and not as a bait to any nation for military operations.

If the Russian government had any interest in the Chinese Eastern Railway and the Central Manchurian Railway (now South Manchurian Railway) then it was only as being an interested shareholder in a purely commercial concern. That the Russian government never had any governmental right in the railway is proved by the fact "that on the expiration of 80 years from the completion of the line and the inauguration of the railway as a running concern the railway and all the railway property shall pass, without payment, to the Chinese government, who shall not be responsible for any losses which the company may have sustained during that period." The Chinese government further retained the right "at the expiration of thirty-six years from the inauguration of the railway as a going concern, to take over the railway on due payment."

These quotations from the agreement are sufficient to point the fact that it was the Chinese government and not the Russian government which held sovereignty over the railway and its various authorised branches and by Japan taking over that portion now called the South Manchurian Railway she was making a direct attack on the sovereignty of China, with whom she was professedly on friendly terms. This injustice was permitted by the Portsmouth treaty.

The treaty of Portsmouth started a very bad precedent in permitting this wholly illegal alienation of the sovereign rights of a friendly people who was not concerned in the war, and the sequestration by Japan of private property of a private Russo-Chinese Railway Company. This sequestrating of private owned property by the Japanese has given that country the long sought opportunity of setting up in the territories of a supposedly friendly state, a quasi sovereignty in the form of a so-called sphere of influence. This condition of things is not good or sound in principle and any attempt or possibility of attempt at its extension must be vigorously opposed by the friendly powers by all means at their disposal. There is grave danger at the present moment of such attempt.

Now the condition of control and working of the Chinese Eastern Railway is chaotic in the extreme. Apparently every one of the jarring peoples in its vicinity is trying to have a finger in the spoils, if not the control. The Japanese have cast more than covetous eyes, they have cast very avaricious eyes at the "C.E.R." It must never get into their hands. It must certainly pass from the hands it is in at present! It and its running are not in the hands of the Chinese Eastern Railway Company. The control and running are in the hands of the Russian employes if the line and the running is solely in the pocket interests of these Russian employes. To indicate this: It was necessary for the writer to transport certain commercial commodities from Changchun, or rather Kuanchentze, to Harbin, the freight paid for such shipment being $22.00 but in order to get this freightage and early transport the writer had perforce to pay Yen 350.00 in squeeze to the Kuanchentze station employes. In again shipping from Harbin to Manchuli the freight on goods was $63.00 but the squeeze to secure freightage was Yen 570.00 and despite this squeeze it took 4 days from Harbin to Manchuli.

Now no railway in the world was ever intended for the spoliation of the trade of the country through which the railway runs. A railway operating on these lines or differentiating in trade nationality ceases to be a commercial enterprise and as the concession for the railway was given as such commercial enterprise such action on the part of employes and the permission by the railway authorities of such action on the part of employers constitutes a breach of contract and should form good and sufficient ground for abrogating the contract.

The writer would not advocate confiscation on the part of the Chinese Government, through the said government has good and sufficient grounds for confiscation, China should however exercise the power of redemption of the line, under the redemption clause of the Railway Agreement of 1896. It should make full and ample reduction in the price paid for redemption, as an offset for the injury to Chinese trade resulting from C. E. R. employes' graft as well as injury to the sovereign state of China through Russia having used the railway as a means of armed military transport and thus brought Chinese territorial integrity within the scope of the Portsmouth treaty, to the great and grievous injury of China.

The railway agreement states: "The construction of this line shall never, however be made a ground for encroaching on the sovereignty or integrity of China."

Poor China! How little faith can she place on the written word of statesmen, when one sees the sovereign action of the Japanese gendarmerie on the South Manchurian Railway and Japanese soldiery on the Chinese Eastern Railway and when her sovereignty and integrity were guaranteed in the Railway Agreement!

Every endeavor should now be made to restore to China the control of her railways in Manchuria, from Manchuli on the west and Usuria on the east to the sea on the south. The Railways of Manchuria are not at present being operated for the benefit of China, in whose territory they run. It is an anomaly, if not a scandal, that the Chinese government railway which runs from Peking to Mukden, another from Changchun to Kirin should not have through running, when a railway in Chinese territory joins Changchun and Mukden and this line differentiates against all other trade including that of China, through preferential treatment of the trade of Japanese subjects.

A commission consisting of one American, one British and one French delegate has recently visited the Chinese Eastern Railway to make a report thereon to the Chinese Government. Let us trust that that report is very thorough and that it will spare no one where condemnation is necessary. It is essential at the present juncture that China should realise that her friends are real friends and not friends in name only. That friendship will not tolerate chicanery, no matter by who practiced! That if friendship condemns China's misdeeds it also condemns the misdeeds of others in China! That the justice of the friendly powers is even-handed.

In pursuance of that even-handed justice a way must be found, at the earliest-possible moment, to restore the Chinese Eastern Railway to China and give China running rights over the Mukden-Changchun section of the South Manchurian Railway.

How may this recovery of the Chinese Eastern Railway best be carried out? By an assessment being made of the value of the line and all stocks pertaining thereto, allowance being being made for the aforementioned injury to China and then Chinese Government Railway bonds should be made out to the value of the assessed sum and handed over to the Russo-Asiatic Bank as custodians for the one-time shareholders of the Chinese Eastern Railways, which according to the agreement of 1896 consist of "Russians and Chinese only." Any shares not supported by bona fide Russian share scrip must under the above be Chinese shares and if there are no Chinese shareholders who can produce bona fide share scrip, then these Chinese shares are the property of the Chinese Government, not of the erstwhile Russian Government or any of the present day Russian Governments, as the original agreement barred any such political nature for the Chinese Eastern Railway and the Central Manchurian Railway. In the restoration of this railway to China no bogus claims to shares or monetary interest can be tolerated.

It is regrettable that the whole South Manchurian Railway cannot be redeemed by China until thirty-six years from 1902, when the line was established as a going concern but the Chinese have a right to demand that this railway shall be run in the interests of China and not solely for the benefit of Japanese traders, any preference in rates or facilities for procuring freightage is in itself a breach of the 1896 railway agreement and could be made a ground for the abrogation of that agreement and it therefore behoves the South Manchurian Railway authorities to move circumspectly in this direction and abolish all preferential treatment of Japanese trade in Manchuria.

It is possible that a very amicable settlement of the railway question as between the Japanese and the Chinese might be arrived at upon the Chinese resuming jurisdiction over the Chinese Eastern Railway. The line from Harbin to Changchun could be converted from the present Russian guage to the standard guage and fixed schedules drawn up whereby both the Chinese Government Railways and the South Manchurian Railway would have through running rights between Mukden and Harbin. This would be to the great benefit of both parties concerned. If the Japanese could not agree to such a running understanding it would indicate to the world and particularly to the friends of China that the Japanese do not want the South Manchurian Railway as a commercial enterprise but as a stepping stone to further aggrandisement in Manchuria, a purpose officially repudiated by Japan.

There need be no difficulty connected with such inter-running between Harbin and Mukden as has been proved in many parts of the world, where railway companies have acquired running rights over sections of rival lines. The Japanese would not be giving something for nothing as it would be to their very great advantage to be able to freight direct between Dalny and Harbin without changing freight cars. On the other hand it would be of inestimable value for China to have direct communication between Harbin and the Tientsin-Mukden line.

It must be remembered that the Japanese have only acquired the rights belonging to the Russo-Chinese Company which constructed the Central Manchurian Railway under the agreement of March 27, 1897, which permitted the construction of this branch line of the Chinese Eastern Railway under the same conditions as those pertaining to the latter line, a very important article of which stipulated for Russian and Chinese shareholders in a concern which was purely a Russian and Chinese commercial undertaking. Under the Portsmouth reversionary rights of those agreements acquired by Japan from Russia, as a result of the Russo-Japanese War, Japan is only entitled to put in force on the South Manchurian Railway an owing company which shall consist of Japanese and Chinese shareholders. Is there a single Chinese shareholder in the South Manchuria Railway today? Were the Chinese ever given the opportunity of becoming shareholders in the South Manchurian Railways? If Chinese are not shareholders and were never given the opportunity of becoming shareholders, then Japan herself has annulled the agreement under which she has any pretensions to the South Manchurian Railway, and the Railway should revert to China.

The same argument holds good in regard to the Chinese Eastern Railway. Everything points to the absolute right of China to assume the authority over her own railways in her territories in Manchuria, the only question being as to the most equitable methods by which such rights may be resumed. It is the duty of the friends of China and all those who call so loudly for the upholding of the rights of small nations, to work out the most equitable method for the readjustment of railway conditions in Manchuria at the present time the trade of China of the first part and the trade of the friendly powers of the second part are suffering badly through the prevailing conditions both on the C. E. R. and the S. M. R. Let us play the game by China and readjust conditions which bring about these anomalies! Let us work with China and for China and not against her. The sooner we realise our duty towards China the sooner will China become strong and be able to defend herself from the aggression that threatens from certain quarters.

A GIRL STUDENT ADDRESSES HER SISTERS

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Dear Sir: In my opinion, Miss Kwei's article which appeared in your paper, accusing foreign education of destroying happiness in our homes and country, is one sided. First I must say that I am not trying to defend the students or returned students. As I am a returned student's wife myself, I come into contact with many students and hear about their domestic troubles. I naturally sympathise with my sex, yet one should be fair in judgment.

Now what causes this discontentment in the homes? We must first discover the causes and try to apply the remedies. Is it because a member of the family prefers foreign clothes to Chinese, speaks English instead of Chinese and acts like a foreigner instead of using the old Chinese manner? I am sure my readers will agree with me that the above could not bring disaster to the home. The "grand gentlemen," who possess these "symptoms" are living in a transitional stage, and will adjust themselves in time.

Miss Kwei has emphasised strongly the students' duties to parents and homes, and especially our Chinese ways and customs, without any consideration, whatsoever, whether our customs are beneficial or injurious I am happy to say that our Chinese have awakened to the fact that many of our old customs are harmful, such as women's bound-feet and idol worship. But few have realised that the evil customs practiced by all classes of Chinese have wrecked more young lives and homes than modern influence. Why do parents engage their beloved sons and daughters when they are just wee babes and before they can say anything for themselves? Because it is an old Chinese custom. Why do they marry their children when they are in their teens, knowing little of life and less of its responsibilities? Because Chinese parents, especially the mothers, believe in the old custom, that one must have daughters-in-law and sons-in-law in order to be considered fortunate or privileged. Therefore they are too impatient to wait for their daughters and sons to grow up. I am just as sorry for the young men as for their wives. They are both victims of these old customs. Let us co-operate in the future to abolish childhood engagements and early marriages so as to insure peace and happiness in the homes of the coming generation.

There are few students who think themselves superior to their fellow countrymen, because they secured their diplomas from colleges at home or abroad. In any case, I believe that foreign education is not entirely to be blamed. Those students may have been born selfish and conceited and education only served to make them haughtier.

A student who openly breaks his engagement made by his parents or separates from his wife may be guilty, but he is at least not such a coward as the young man who outwardly submitted before his parents' choice and secretly married another. If China only had a law to stop concubinage! For thousands of years, our Chinese have been living under "man-made-law." I expect our women will have a voice in the government in the near future.

Fortunately, those students who alienate themselves from their wives and families are very few in number, compared with the returned students who march gallantly back to their old homes and families, with high ideals and hopes to change the ways of living in their homes and reform the whole country. Of course they must begin with their own homes and first of all their wives. Many have met disappointment right from the start and many more had been led back to Chinese ways. It is a pity to see these educated young men idling away their time by playing "sparrow," or indulging themselves in "flowery feasts."

Why have some students failed to make happy homes? Their wives ignorance of the English language is the main reason, some people think. Far from it! The truth is, that most of our Chinese girls know very little of good house-keeping and responsibilities as wives and mothers. It is not their fault as they have absolutely no training at home or in school for that purpose. I do earnestly hope that the Chinese girl students will give this matter due consideration. For the girl students of today will be the wives of the students of tomorrow.

We all know that a husband's effort alone cannot make a happy home. It takes two self-sacrificing and loving souls to accomplish such desirable result, and the wife has more than half of the share as far as the home is concerned. A woman must make her home sanitary and comfortable; see to it that the foods are clean and digestible; be able to attend to her own children, and furthermore to entertain her husband's friends at home. I am not going into details about other wifely duties which may be just as important, but in order to guard her husband's and children's health as well as her own, she must bear in mind the above facts. There's no doubt that good health leads on the road to happiness and happy homes are made up of healthy people.

There are always exceptions to the rule and I am certain, we have many ideal wives in China. But could we have more? Let me ask you the following questions and see how many can answer:

How many Chinese women care to keep their homes clean or comfortable? Most of them leave that to the servants.

How many girl students can cook or understand anything about food values?

How many young mothers know that an infant should have a bath once a day and are willing to attend to their children personally?

How many young men are permitted to entertain at home? I am sure many prefer that to the noisy restaurants. But their wives' unwillingness to act as hostesses has driven them from home.

Our missionary friends have done their very best to educate our girls. But we must remember that most of the principles and faculties of all the missionary schools are "bachelor-girls," therefore many of them fail to see the necessity of establishing a course of domestic science or home economics.

Our young men and women should co-operate and open a school where young women could learn to cook, not foreign pastry or fancy deserts, but simple, wholesome Chinese foods, for children as well as grown up; and to study economies which apply to our way of house-keeping.

Wake up sisters; Let us realise the important part we have to play in home and country and shoulder the tasks bravely. China has been a weak nation because our women are dependent. Do not waste your valuable time in smoking cigarettes, or playing sparrow and put the blame on foreign influence, but try to improve yourselves and progress with your brothers.

I sincerely hope from now on our young men will adopt only the best of the western civilisation and help their wives to build "home, sweet homes."

A SUGGESTION

When clothes cost a hundred a garment,
And garments don't last very long,
You can go and buy all your clothes at Holtzall,
Or perhaps, cheaper still, in Hongkong;
Or even dispense with all clothing
In the sunshine of Pootoo's fan town.
Just live for a while on that cool, smiling isle,
And prices perhaps will go down.

Of course in pursuing the practise
You probably will give up and die;
In which dismal event, you won't care a cent,
If prices are low or are high.
I merely submit the suggestion
With heavy misgivings and doubt,
It may not be sound, but as far as I've found,
It looks like the only way out.

PLUM WARNER

Plum Warner, or to give him his correct name, Pelham Warner, announces his retirement from first class cricket. He has had a long innings and both England and Middlesex are the better for his fine captaincy. For a score of years he has been a familiar figure at Lords. His bald pate, generally covered with an I Zingari cap, made him appear older than he really was but when the war broke out he was able to beat Anno Domini and to rise to the rank of colonel. He has not been fit for sometime and although his name was on the lips of the M.C.C. when debating who should be the captain to take the English eleven to Australia this autumn it was not age so much as failing health that put him out of the running. Cricketers can call to mind that it was under his brilliant leadership that the English team won Down Under when they journeyed there last in 1912. Beside being a wonderful captain, a fine bat, a bit of a bowler, a real tip top chap and a soldier he is also an author with a style that grips in interest from page one to finis.

A Home Letter For Far Eastern Scots

BY ROBERT S. ANGUS

Edinburgh, June 16.—That witty Frenchman, Max O'Rell, used to say that if two Scotsmen were cast away on a desert island, they would have formed a Caledonian Society before the end of the year. The Rev. John McNeil, Scotland's roaming evangelist, once told a friend of mine that having been all over the world he had "found Scotsmen everywhere, in good jobs, raking in the money, and every now and again straightening their backs and saying "O why left I my hame?"

Both jibes have point. They hint at the clannishness of the Scot, at his tendency to wander, at his knack of doing well for himself and the land of his adoption, yet never losing his sentimental attachment to the land of his birth. No race, I suppose, has spread its branches wider over the world or kept its roots more firmly embedded in its native soil. It will be the aim of the series of letters, of which this is the first, to nurture these roots with news and gossip week by week from North of the Tweed.

The writer himself has wandered, not so far or so long as most of his readers, but far enough to enable him to appreciate their point of view, their hunger for news from home, their interest in events which to the outsider may seem of no more importance than the parish pump. On the other hand, he hopes to distinguish between patriotism and parochialism, to see his country's affairs in their true perspective and to record and comment on them without bias, prejudice, or malice.

THE ROYAL VISIT

The uppermost event in Scottish interest at the moment is the coming visit of the King and Queen to Holyrood. The engagement is likely to be interfered with by the state of Queen Alexandra's health, which gives ground for anxiety. Meanwhile the Edinburgh seamstresses—such of them as not on strike—are hard at work on frocks for those who are to be presented, and members of the Royal Archers—the King's bodyguard in Scotland—are wondering whether their uniforms of twenty years ago, can be stretched sufficiently to meet their time-expanded waists.

Holyrood has just passed through the annual temporary revival of her ancient glories, which in his "Picturesque Notes," R. L. Stevenson so well describes, on the occasion of the residence of the Lord High Commissioner, an office which the Duke of Atholl (better remembered by his friends as Lord Tullibardine, and still referred to as "Bardie") has again discharged with great distinction. There is reason to believe that the King and the Queen mean to make their stay in Edinburgh an annual event on their way to the Highland. The King is never so happy as when at Balmoral with rod and gun, for his tastes are those of a country gentleman, whereas his father found Deeside dull, especially when he was no longer able to take an active part in outdoor sport.

The Royal Family would do southerners a good turn if they set the fashion of coming to Scotland earlier in the year. They are seldom seen till after that mystic date, the 12th of August, the opening of the grouse shooting, though the great majority of them hardly know a grouse from a goose. Thus they miss the beauties of June, with its brilliant colors and its long evenings of daylight. No Scot would decry the glories of his country in September and October, but they are sombre compared with those of mid-summer.

SCOTLAND'S MINISTER

Lord Roseberry's state of health forbids the hope that he will ever again be able to take part in public life, but he still follows affairs with keen interest, as witness his letter to the press urging that the Secretary for Scotland should be raised in status—and salary—to the position of a Secretary of State.

The arrangement is specially unjust at present, when the post is held by a man who was formerly Lord Advocate with £5,000 a year and for whom promotion meant reduction to £2,000 a year, or less than half what he could earn in his own profession. Mr. Munro, a self-made son on the manse, is the most efficient and popular Scottish Secretary we have had since the office was revived some thirty years ago. He is assiduous and courteous, and an unwearying champion of his country's interest. His problems may be on a smaller scale than those which face his English colleagues, but they are far more numerous and not less complicated, and it is unfair that he should be paid only 40 percent of the salary of a first class Minister. Lord Linlithgow, who bears a name not yet forgotten in Australia, is interesting himself in the problem and is to raise it in debate in the House of Lords. Lord Linlithgow has an aptitude for public affairs and were he not handicapped by indifferent health he would play a larger part.

A FISHING TRADE CRISIS

Mr. Munro is busy with a crisis which threatens the herring fishing industry, due to open this week. Absurd as it may seem at a time when the average housewife is crying out against the high price of fish, the people of this country cannot be induced to eat more than one fifth of the herring caught off its shores. In pre-war days the balance was salted and exported to Russia and Germany, where it found a ready and a lucrative market. But trade with Russia has broken down and with Germany it cannot be resumed unless the state will guarantee the bills which have to be accepted in payment. Last year, the Government bought the whole of the catch at a fixed price, sold it to the Continent, and, if the bills are honored—a point on which experts differ—the transaction will show a profit of £200,000. This year, for some unexplained reason—unless it was that the trade had to ask for a higher fixed price to meet increased expenses—the Cabinet refused to give similar assistance. The result is that the fishermen, having no guarantee of a market for their catch, have refused to go to sea, thousands are already demanding the unemployment benefit, to which they are entitled, and in a few days the coopers and gear-makers will also be thrown out of work, while the thousands of women who used to come from the Highlands and islands as packers will be deprived of their annual harvest.

The men, naturally, feel sore, especially as many of them have served throughout the war in the mine-sweepers and other naval auxiliary vessels. The magnitude of the problem may be gauged from the fact that the weekly wages bill during the season is about £100,000. The Government, recognising that refusal of a guarantee may involve them in still more onerous payments from public funds, have reopened the question and it is now in the hands of Sir Robert Horne, President of the Board of Trade, Lord Lee, the Minister of Agriculture, and the Scottish Secretary, who are consulting with the leading members of the trade.

LORD LEVERHULME AS LAIRD

Lord Leverhulme is finding the position of a Highland laird not without its troubles. He bought the island of Lewis—into which the Mathesons poured a fortune in vain—and he had since increased his holding in the Hebrides, with the idea of playing the part of a benevolent autocrat. He has already begun great schemes for the industrialisation of the Lewis—the establishment of fish preserving factories on a gigantic scale, the extension of Stornoway harbor, the making of roads, the building of houses, and so forth.

But the islanders care little for industrialisation and nothing for autocrats. What they want is land to till. About thirty of them, all ex-service men, with war distinctions and some of them disabled, have settled on two large farms outside Stornoway and refuse to budge. Lord Leverhulme contends that the farms are needed for the milk supply of the town, but that view is contested with some force, since a large part of the supply is already imported from the mainland. Lord Leverhulme has declared his readiness to give land to the fullest extent in his power, provided the two farms in question—scheduled by the Government before the war for small holdings—are surrendered, but that is the main point at issue. He has taken out an interdict against the trespassers but refuses to put it into force, a forbearance for which the Government are grateful, since any attempt in that direction would lead to bloodshed Lord Leverhulme means well and if he went the right way about it he could do almost anything with the islanders. But he is only now coming to realise that he cannot dragoon the Celts, however, benevolent his intentions.

ST. ANDREW'S PRINCIPAL

Our oldest University has sustained a heavy loss in the death of its Principal, the Rev. Sir John Herkless, after five years tenure of his office. His appointment, as Professor of Church History, some 25 years ago, was attributed to the fact that he was one of the few Church of Scotland ministers in political sympathy with the Liberal Government of the day, but he showed that he was a master of his subject and his capacity was still more clearly demonstrated when he became head of the University. He had a real talent for administration, which found further scope during his six years as Provost of the city. The appointment of his successor rests with the Government, and there will be no lack of candidates, for the academic world has few more attractive posts.

SCOTLAND AND GOLF

The commentators are busy with the alleged decadence of Scottish golf, their text being that, although the amateur championship was contested at Muirfield—the "auld water i meadie" of Andrew Kirkaldy's jibe—it was left to a young Englishman to prevent the blue riband of the sport from crossing the Atlantic.

There is a good deal of nonsense in all this. It would be a poor sport if one nation could monopolise its honors. Scottish artisans along the eastern and Ayrshire coasts kept the game alive during last century and they have taught it to the whole world. In Scotland it remains a democratic game, which for the man who carries his own clubs and eschews expensive lunches, does not cost more than a few coppers a week. What I should like to see is a championship confined to men who work five days a week for say 48 weeks in the year, for most of those who figure in the event now are gentlemen who have no need to earn their own living, and can devote themselves mainly to golf. Better still would be a match of say 50 or 100 a side between St. Andrews, Carnoustie, or Troon, and any town of the same size in any other part of the world. Then we should see where golfing talent in proportion to population is most abundant.

A STORY

Sir Robert Horne, whose rapid rise in the political world is a subject of pride to his fellow countrymen, told the following story at a Scottish dinner in London the other night. "What puzzles me," said a well-to-do Scot, "is where these Jew bodies get all the money I make off them."

Berlin Explains Krupp Gun Making

Berlin, June 20.—How the Krupp works at Essen came to be manufacturing cannon as discovered by the French military mission is officially explained as follows:

The Ministry of War before the armistice placed an order for 360 light field guns. The order remaining uncancelled the Krupp management inquired a few months ago whether it should be filled. The military authorities, without consulting the Chancellor or the Foreign Minister, decided, as Germany was permitted by the peace treaty to keep a limited number of small calibre field guns, to reduce the order to sixty to replace the old, wornout guns. The Government immediately cancelled the order when the French discovery was reported.
